

F2F Activity - Justice and Citizenship

Section: Human rights

What do you know about Human Rights?

Participants will be welcomed to the activity. Brief introduction of the participants and objective of the activity. 10 minutes

Firstly, they will have a relaxed conversation with the facilitator/s as a warm up. They will be asked what they know about human rights and respect of human rights. 10 minutes

After that participants will be introduced with the topic human rights by the facilitator (he/she can use videos etc.). The facilitator will explain the different kinds of human rights and the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, the most important document for the Human Rights. Then they will be briefly introduced with the section human rights from the course Justice and citizenship. 10 minutes

Follows division into groups. Every group selects the human right they like the most to work on. They will make a discussion into group from the offered topics/human rights by the facilitator written on the paper. They will have directions by facilitator before the start of activity in order to have good discussion and to have same approach with other groups. 15 minutes

In the end, in the plenary they will discuss about the group topics and share their knowledge for the human rights. Also based on the discussion they will select which one is the most important for them and why. 15 minutes.
